

THE CLUB AT TWIN EAGLES

NAPLES, FLORIDA

Natural Region: Southern Coastal Plain

Watershed: Big Cypress Swamp

The Jack Nicklaus-designed TwinEagles project is within a 1,114-acre site located west of I-75 in Naples, in northern Collier County, Florida, near the Corkscrew Swamp Sanctuary, the largest forest of ancient bald cypress in North America. The property consists primarily of ditched open pastureland, with isolated naturally vegetated island of live oaks, cabbage palms, and wet prairie. Used as rangeland for cattle and sod production historically, the property boasts 240 acres of forested cypress wetlands. To increase biodiversity, twelve lakes totaling 64 acres were created and provide habitat for wading birds, such as herons, egrets, ibis, and feeding opportunities for cormorant, anhinga, and blue-winged teal. The Club at TwinEagles is located adjacent to Bonita Bay Club East, another certified Audubon Signature Sanctuary and was certified as an Audubon International Signature Sanctuary on March 6, 2002.

Native grasses not only provide filtration for golf course runoff, but serve as protection for wildlife such as birds and mammals as they move to the water's edge.
